(5) Precast reinforced concrete piles and pile casings have not been in use in San Francisco Bay a sufficient length of time to determine their ultimate life. A detailed examination of those structures which have been in service for 10 years shows no evidence of deterioration below high water line, and they seem capable of a long further life. The length of life to be expected from this type of construction is largely dependent upon the quality of materials and workmanship and the skill and care with which they are employed; and any laxity in these particulars will materially shorten the length of service which may be secured. (6) Reinforced concrete cylinders cast in open caissons have been in use for twelve years. Although the average life of many earlier cylinders has been considerably shortened by construction defects, these cylinders with minor repairs still give promise of a long period of service. Similar cylinders designed and constructed in accordance with best modern concrete practice should constitute a type of construction only excelled for longevity by solid fill or mass concrete. (7) Cast in place concrete piles jackets may be expected to give satisfactory results if properly constructed of suitable materials and if proper regard is given toward exclusion of sea water from forms. The difficulties-of this type of construction, however, are of such a nature...
